CHOICE SELECTIONS

"Ever a Song Somewhere."
There is ever a song somewhere, my dear, There is ever a something that sings always.

There is a song of the lark when the skies are clear,
And the song of the thrush when the skies are gray; The sunshine showers across the grain,
And the bluebird trills in the orchard tree,
And in and out, when the eaves drip rain,
The swallows are twittering ceaselessly.

There is ever a song somewhere, my
dear,
Be the skies above dark or fair;
There is ever a song that our hearts may hear—
There is ever a song somewhere, my
dear—
There is ever a song somewhere!

In the midnight black or the midday blue;
The robin pipes when the sun is here,
And the cricket chirps the whole night through;
The buds may blow and the fruit may grow,
And the autumn leaves drop crisp and sore;
But whether the sun or the rain or the snow,
There is ever a song somewhere, my
dear.

—James Whitcomb Riley.
Watch Yourself Go By.
"Just stand aside and watch yourself go by;
Think of yourself as 'he' instead of 'I'; Note closely, as in other men you note,
The baggy trousers and the sandy coat.
Pick flaws; find fault; forget the man in you,
And strive to make your estimate true.
Confront yourself and look you in the eye—
Just stand aside and watch yourself
go by.

And then with eyes unveiled to what you loathe
To kiss that with sweet charity you'd either—
Back to yourself-washed leavening you'll go With tolerance for all who dwell below,
The faults of others than will dwell and shrink, Love's chain grow stronger by one mighty link—
Then you, with 'he' as substitute for 'I', Go stand aside and watch your self go by.

—Strickland W. Gilliam.
"Tell 'em You're Feelin' Fine." He ain't no use in kickin' friend, If things don't come your way, See no good to holler round, an' grumble night and day; As when he do it to curb yer grit out of yer little whine, When they ask you how you are,
Just say, "I'm feelin' fine."

Ain't no man alive but what is hooked to get his slaps; Ain't no man that walks but what from trouble gets his rap, Among the bunch, old boy, Where all the bright lights shine and when they ask you how you are,
Just say, "I'm feelin' fine." Heart may be just bustin' with some real or fancied woe, If you smile the other folks ain't very apt to know;
Ain't no world laughs at heartaches,
Ain't no world laughs at heartaches,
Ain't no world laughs at heartaches,
Just say, "I'm feelin' fine."
—Undisputed.

Bound to be true.
Bound to be true, but I am bound to be true. I am not bound to succeed, but I am bound to live up to what light I have. I must stand with anybody that stands right—stand with him when he goes wrong—Abraham Lincoln.

Living in the Past.

"How easy and how simple life would be if the best and the highest warmed us of its going," writes G. H.
Morris. "To have a name to live and yet be dead; to trade on our reputation of yesterday; to comfort ourselves in secret on those graces that were ours once, but now are ours no longer—that is the tragedy of human character, more terrible than any and all that fall."

The Victorious Ideal.

The one ideal that is pure and permanent and satisfying, the one ideal that actually has had power to keep itself alive and prove itself the valuable over the disintegrating forces of sin and death is the ideal in Jesus Christ," says Dr. Henry Van Dyke.
"The men and women who have built that foundation have been the best men and women and have left behind them the most enduring and glorious work, even in the very domain where the human ideals have been erected as supreme."

Japanese Statesman's Faith.

"It is true that there is no knowing when I shall die—I may even die tomorrow, but firmly believing as I do in the indestructibility of energy, I am quite indifferent to the advent of death," writes Count Okuma in the Japan Weekly Chronicle. "Death, after all, means no more than a corporeal change; there can be no reason why I, my own self, should vanish into air or nothingness, and I am convinced that whatever change my physical frame may undergo, my energies and soul will forever remain in this world in this respect, I agree with the religionists, who hold that the soul is immortal."

Our Rule of Life.

We desire always to look truth in the face, to follow her call, not to shrink from her just rebuke. We are pledged, whether conscience whispers or thunders, whether multitudes go with us or not, equally to obey. There is no shining height so great whither our duty's sake we would not wish to climb; no depth so fathomless whither our mercy's sake we would not seek to penetrate. Whether appreciated or not, we will try to be gracious, we will not try to get, but to give; to achieve, to accomplish, to pour life out, and make lives grow, to help, to save, to uplift. We delight in all good work done wherever done it—Charles F. Doyle.

Sentence Sermons.

They have a right to ensure that have a heart to help—William Penn.
If as some compensation for great evils that they enforce great lessons —Boyc.
Be ye doers of the word and not hearers only, deluding your own souls.—St. James.
The most efficient educational institution which has yet appeared in the old-fashioned American family—Prof. G. A. Coe.
Happiness is not found in self-contemplation; it is perceived only when it is reflected from another.—Johnson.
"Trust in the Lord with all thine heart, and lean not upon thine own understanding. In all thy ways acknowledge him and he shall direct thy paths.—Proverbs.

Tell the Truth.

A man who has lived his life so successfully that he has occupied a position of great responsibility once said: "I have seen many men rise and fall in the world, but I never have seen anybody who seriously injured his prospects by telling the truth.
When I was a very young man I made up my mind that there was nothing in this world that was worth a lie and I can safely say that much of my success is due to this fact. I have had several employers in my life, but I never worked for a man without winning his confidence. I always told him the truth, and he soon saw that I was to be trusted. It is one of the laws of success."—Bookkeeper.

A Toast to Woman.

This beautiful toast to a woman was originally given by a man who had been a hard drinker, but who had turned from the winecup and become one of the leading lights of the legal profession. The occasion was a banquet in Philadelphia on April 18, 1891.
It is as follows: "I should like to prepare a toast tonight, although a total abstinence man myself—a toast to woman. To be drunk—not in liquor of any kind, for we should never judge a woman in that which may bring her husband reeling home to above where he should love and cherish, and her daughter to a life of shame. Oh, no, but in that, but rather in the flowing water pure as her chastity, clear as her baldness, bright as her smile, sparkling as the laughter in her eyes, shining as her indignation, strong and unsubduable as her love—in the crystal we I would think to her that she would remain queen regent to the empire she has already won, grounded deep as the universe in love, built up and exalted in the home and heart of the world; I would drink to her full blown flower of creation's morning of which man was but the bud bloom, to her who in childhood clasps her hands, and teaches us to bless the first sweet prayer to the Great All-Father, who comes to us in youth with good counsel and advice, who in manhood mentors our hearts yearning with the faithfulness of conjugal love, and whose hand, when our feet go down in the shadow, gently smooths the rough pillow of death as none other can; to her who is the flower of flowers, the pearl of pearls, God's latest, best and brightest gift to man—woman, peerless, pure, sweet and noble!"—Edmond.

HIDDEN DANGERS.

Nature Gives Timely Warnings That No Greenville Citizen Can Afford to Ignore.

DANGER SIGNAL NO. 1 comes from the kidney secretions. They will warn you when the kidneys are sick.
Well kidneys excrete a clear, amber fluid. Sick kidneys send out a thin, pale and watery, or a thick, red, infected urine, full of sediment and irregular of passage.

from the back. Back pains, dull and heavy, or sharp and acute, tell you of sick kidneys and warn you of the approach of dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease. Don't let kidney pills cure sick kidneys and cure them permanently. Here's Greenville proof.
J. E. Arcey, farmer, two miles south of Greenville, Texas, says: "When I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills a few months ago I was in bad shape.
There was a constant dull pain in the small of my back which was most severe when I stooped. At night I had to get up several times to pass the kidney secretions and was annoyed greatly. The kidney secretions were also highly colored and painful in passage. The contents of two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from Ford & Pennington's Drug Store, checked the trouble from my kidneys and lessened the pain in my back. I can strongly recommend this excellent remedy to my friends and neighbors."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McMillan Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.
